Mobile Global Esports Inc. (OTC PINK:MGAM), a publicly traded AI-native technology and intellectual property company, announced the appointment of Dominick Miserandino as Chief Marketing Officer (CMO), reinforcing its executive strength as the company prepares to launch its provisional patent-pending behavioral matching platform and Dominus Fantasy Sports platform.

Miserandino will oversee all brand, product marketing, communications, and public-facing efforts for MGAM as it commercializes groundbreaking platforms in fantasy sports, curated matching, skill-based sweepstakes, and fan engagement.

"I love that Mobile Global isnt just building another product – theyre creating a whole new category of digital interaction. The AI behavioral engine theyve developed, backed by strong, defensible IP, isnt just clever – its transformative. Having led AI and digital growth strategies across startups and enterprise-scale platforms, I know how rare it is to see something this forward-thinking and commercially viable. Its the kind of innovation Ive built my career around, and Im excited to help shape the story and amplify whats coming next," said Miserandino.

As CMO, Miserandino will lead global marketing strategy and execution across MGAMs suite of AI-powered products. His responsibilities include product launch planning, investor and media communications, user acquisition strategy, and helping craft a unified, scalable brand story for MGAMs evolving IP portfolio.

“Dominick is a rockstar,” said Brett Rosin, CEO of MGAM. “He brings a unique mix of marketing depth, content strategy, and monetization instinct. We’re building something bold and technically powerful – and now we have someone who can tell that story with authority and creativity. His energy and expertise make him perfect for where we’re going.”

“Dominick brings horsepower – full stop,” added Steve Berman, COO of MGAM. “This guy knows how to tell stories, drive traffic, build audiences, and generate revenue. With his leadership, MGAM is better positioned to deliver its message – and its products – at scale.”

Miserandino has over 30 years of experience in media, monetization, and digital strategy. He’s held senior roles at NASA, Chase, Morgan Stanley, Hearst, and The Wall Street Journal, and was the founder and CEO of TheCelebrityCafe.com for 20 years. He later served as CEO of The Inquisitr. He’s also held fractional leadership roles as CMO, CRO, and Chief Communications Officer for multiple growth-stage ventures and is a frequent commentator on Fox, NBC, and tech panels worldwide.
