A Global Platform for Student Voice and Impact

At the Summit, students:

- Joined workshops led by UNICEF, World's Largest Lesson, Generation Global and subject matter experts around the SDGs, Children's Rights, building advocacy skills, impacting change in their communities, as well as student leadership.
- Volunteered in the local Houston community, including supporting a local food bank.
- Collaborated on a capstone project where students worked with their international peers to address problem statements created by UNICEF on important topics such as Nutrition, Education, and Health.
- Led "peer talks" and shared how they are acting as leaders in their community by leading social impact projects, including sustainability, climate change, and social equality.

"We're proud to host 160+ student leaders from around the world in Houston this year," Dr Leslie Williams, Group Head of Social Impact and EDIB at Nord Anglia, said. "I'm happy to see how they develop their leadership and youth advocacy skills in order to create a lasting impact on their local communities based on the SDGs and Child Rights."

Kavita Sukhani, Oakridge Principal, remarked, "We are immensely proud of our students for representing us at this prestigious global summit. This experience will undoubtedly inspire them to continue their journey as changemakers, applying the skills and connections they've gained to address real-world challenges through the lens of the UN Sustainable Development Goals."

The NAE Student Summit is not the only way students get engaged with the SDGs and social impact efforts at Nord Anglia schools. Through the Social Impact Distinctions, schools work toward three levels of accreditation (bronze, silver, and gold) showcasing how they have embedded children's rights and the SDGs. Each year, students can also receive funding from the Social Impact Grants to expand and enhance their community activities addressing the goals.
