With the enactment of the Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023, and the forthcoming DPDP Rules, businesses handling personal data in India are mandated to establish systems for consent management, data processing, and governance.

Paymentz, known for its secure, scalable, and white-label digital payment solutions, is addressing these requirements by deploying Leegality's ConsentIn platform, which offers comprehensive solutions for consent lifecycle governance, data discovery and mapping, cookie compliance, data impact assessment, and audit-ready policy workflows.

The integration of ConsentIn will span Paymentz's core payment gateway services, including real-time payment processing, vendor payouts, and merchant onboarding, across its extensive network of MSMEs, startups, and enterprise clients.

"At Paymentz, we are committed to providing secure and seamless payment solutions to our clients," said Anupam Vassa, CEO, Paymentz. Partnering with Consentin to implement DPDP compliance across our platforms not only ensures regulatory adherence but also reinforces our dedication to safeguarding user data and enhancing trust in our services.

Developed by Leegality, ConsentIn is designed to meet the full spectrum of DPDP compliance needs for privacy, legal, compliance, and IT teams. It consolidates various DPDP compliance functions into a single, secure, and easy-to-implement platform, streamlining the process for businesses to align with the regulations.

"We are thrilled to collaborate with Paymentz in this pioneering initiative," said Shivam Singla, CEO, Leegality. "Their commitment to integrating comprehensive DPDP compliance measures sets a benchmark in the digital payments industry for others to mirror."
