Where Legends Meet Across Time print campaign has been recognized by Luerzers Archive as the top campaign, marking a significant achievement for the Kerala-based branding agency Push 360.

“Where Legends Meet Across Time” – A Compelling Campaign by Push 360 Agency for the Malayala Manorama Hortus Art and Literature Festival

The captivating campaign was meticulously crafted for Hortus, the art and literature festival launched in 2024 by the prominent media house, Malayala Manorama. The artwork, crafted by Push 360's Chief Creative Director, Jayaprakash (JePi), imagines a surreal meeting of cultural legends – Vincent van Gogh and Vaikom Muhammad Basheer on the shores of Kozhikode, echoing the festival's spirit of timeless creative dialogue.

Luerzers Archive, a leading global authority on advertising creativity, praised the campaign for its artistic merit, communication impact, and conceptual innovation.

V. A. Shrikumar, CMD of Push 360, stated, “The most important thing in communication is to hear what isn't being said. I'm truly happy about the recognition our work has received, it speaks volumes through its visual narrative. At Push 360, every campaign is born from a deep process of strategic thinking and creative ideation – crafted to elevate and transform brands with purpose and meaningful differentiation.”

Jayaprakash, Chief Creative Director, explained the campaigns concept, “The central idea was to create a visual metaphor for the Hortus event, as a unique intersection of brilliance, where legacies could symbolically interact. We wanted to pay homage to the rich heritage of the Hortus Malabaricus while highlighting its enduring relevance and reinterpret that legacy through a modern creative lens aligned with the festival’s identity.”
