The Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) was signed in the presence of AARDOs Secretary-General, His Excellency Dr. Manoj Nardeosingh. He emphasised the organisations commitment to addressing lead poisoning through collaborative efforts and talked about how children with lead exposure suffer from IQ loss, cognitive problems, and behavioural issues. “Lead is a silent killer, thus it should be addressed until its too late,” he said.

The signing was also attended by members of ASIAs lead research team, Chairman of ASIA Sh. Najeeb Jung, and other representatives from AARDO and SGT University. While talking about the problem at hand, Prof. Amogh Rai, Research Director at ASIA, said, “Poverty is an issue that we are working to address; however, lead exposure is a significant factor that is interconnected with it and can contribute to its persistence.”

Through this partnership, both organisations look forward to fostering behavioural change, enhancing knowledge dissemination, and creating lasting positive impact for those who need it the most.
